Introducing Metropolitan Youth Symphony’s 44th Season!

As we enter our 44th season, Metropolitan Youth Symphony (MYS), has reason to celebrate. Our 2017 - 2018 concert season consists of three Downtown Series performances at the Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall, one concert at the Newmark Theatre (in partnership with Friends of Chamber Music), and 12 concerts throughout the community, at schools and local venues. This August marked the one-year anniversary of Music Director, Raúl Gómez joining MYS. With the high quality of his artistic experience and belief in community, we continue to devote our efforts to musical excellence, access, equity, and collaboration. Music from the Americas | November 12 - 7:30pm
Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall | Tickets: $11 - $40
Symphony Orchestra conducted by Music Director, Raúl Gómez
Also featuring performances by Concert Orchestra and Interlude Orchestra

Our opening concert celebrates the beautifully diverse musical landscape of the Americas, as we echo the Oregon Symphony’s exploration of the topic of immigration within their Sounds of Home series. The program opens with the vibrant Three Latin American Dances by American composer Gabriela Lena Frank. Gabriela draws from her multicultural background to create three musical vignettes derived from pan-Amazonian dance forms. Next, George Gershwin’s jazz-infused An American in Paris evokes the French capital in the 1920s, through the eyes and ears of a foreign visitor. Finally, student mariachi groups Una Voz from Hillsboro and Tradición from Forest Grove join our orchestra for a grand finale featuring favorite mariachi tunes.

Symphony Orchestra conducted by Music Director, Raúl Gómez

We turn to the magic of storytelling as we feature Rimsky-Korsakov’s Scheherazade, based on the collection of Middle Eastern folk tales One Thousand and One Nights. This symphonic suite takes the listener through a fantastic journey as Scheherazade entertains Sultan Schariar with fascinating tales one night after the other. The composer’s dazzling orchestration and masterful musical narrative paint vivid pictures of the Persian world, and the orchestra is challenged with demanding ensemble playing and solos. At this concert we also feature the world premiere of an overture by MYS violinist and composer Katie Palka. Her work tells a story of the environment as we mirror the second theme of the Oregon Symphony’s Sounds of Home series.

Program
» Rimsky-Korsakov: Scheherazade
» Commissioned piece by MYS student Katie Palka
